

When most younger students are asked to name two healthcare professions, generally they will respond, “doctors and nurses.” They may not be aware of the vast variety of clinical and non-clinical health providers and the services they deliver to their patients. Therefore, medical visits, procedures, and terminology can be (at the very least) intimidating to some younger students.

Health Career Kids can help. This program is a collection of age-appropriate games that are designed to introduce K-6 students to a variety of health careers while familiarizing them with health procedures and medical terminology through attention-grabbing, interactive activities. Students will gain valuable new insights while having fun.

Health Career Kids was created by Catskill Hudson Area Health Education Center, which is a non-profit whose mission is to address regional healthcare workforce shortages through education and collaborative community relationships to assist students, career seekers and health professionals.
